

A portrait of Veronica Tiller, a woman with long dark hair, wearing a red and blue patterned top. The background is a blurred outdoor scene with trees and a sky with soft light.

Speaking from the Heart: Women, Business and History in Indian Country Today

By Veronica Tiller author of Tiller's Guide to Indian Country.

What is it to be a Jicarilla Apache woman, an historian, and a business entrepreneur? Come find out. Please join us in welcoming Veronica Tiller to the Department of Anthropology for a light lunch and discussion of her book, Tiller's Guide to Indian Country. This informal discussion with a leading voice in Indian Country will explore how careers and life choices cross-cut culture, business, scholarship, and history.

Veronica Tiller is a Jicarilla Apache historian and consultant. In addition to writing about economic development on Native American reservations, she also has written extensively about her Tribe, and speaks widely on tribal governments, tribal sovereignty, and women's issues.

More information about Dr. Tiller can be found on her website
<http://veronicatiller.com/media-kit/>

DROP IN ANYTIME•JOIN THE DISCUSSION•MEET DR. TILLER
Monday, April 11, 2016 between 11:30 – 1:00

Room 153 Heroy Hall

To RSVP email Sunday Eiselt
seiselt@smu.edu

or RSVP Directly
Here

